I embarked on this adventure by creating MUST Communication Algeria agency, which would become a 360° agency. Truly passionate about my profession, I took an interest in technical aspects, even the most advanced ones. Beyond the role of conductor, I was also a full-fledged collaborator, and this is how I acquired various skills other than the usual ones, such as: web design and its aspects related to SEO and SEA, developing social media strategies from A to Z and the SMO / SMA aspect, I also familiarized myself with graphic design tools, printing processes, and urban display. Additionally, I actively collaborated in organizing events for our clients as well as managing PR, all while gradually incorporating Artificial Intelligence and democratizing its use. Beyond the role of CEO of the agency, I also wore the hat of Marketing & Communication Director when some of our clients outsourced these departments to our agency. Today, managing and participating in projects at every stage has become my daily routine, and I love it!

Why did I choose communication and why did I found a 360° Agency when I am a mechanical engineer ?

As an ultimate geek perceiving the world digitally, always on the lookout for the latest technological advancements, I have been, since childhood, also an eternal enthusiast of noble automotive mechanics. I had to make a choice when it came to selecting my university path, between Marketing, Engineering, and Computer Science. I decided to opt for a state engineering degree in mechanical construction, but with the project of combining my three passions by founding a company that could satisfy them all. This goal was achieved in 2013, growing to 34 employees by 2018, with renowned clients. After 11 years of experience in managing a 360° agency, it's time for me to face new challenges, but this time, it will be on the client side, yet with the same goal: success!
